- Highlands Park's joint-head coach, Les Grobler, has praised his club's former midfielder, Surprise Moriri. "When Surprise told us late last season that he was retiring, we thought he was joking. But being a true professional, he knew when enough was enough, unlike some others, who want to play forever and ever. The man didn't desire to play at a lower level, where he'd lose his dignity and pride," he said.
- Another player who's decided to quit the game is University of Pretoria's long-serving goalkeeper, Tristyn Coetsee, 29. The former Arcadia Shepherds' junior spent about 10 years on the books of

- AmaTuks. "He has two degrees," said his father, Steve, who confirmed the news to Soccer Laduma.
- NFD rookies, Ubuntu FC, are busy establishing a relationship with Cape Town ABC Motsepe League outfit, The Magic FC. "We're still trying to work out how the link's going to work, but I think it's symbolic," said Ubuntu director, Michael Jenkins.
- Former Free State Stars winger, Kefuwe Siyoko, is on trial with Mthatha Bucks, who've not been forthcoming with player movements for the upcoming season. This news was confirmed by Siyoko's agent, Kennie Chishimba.

- "Another player of mine, 20-year-old centre-back, Ayanda Mkhumla, is being assessed by Royal Eagles," he said.
- Cape Town All Stars are looking for an alternative venue to Parow Park. "After the Engen Tournament the surface was damaged, so we'll probably take a few games to Phillipi Stadium," said Igugu Lekapa GM, Faez Dulvie.
- Uthongathi FC will be playing at the Princess Magogo Stadium instead of their favourite venue from last season. "On the club's membership form, they didn't even mention the Sheik Mohideen Stadium," said a PSL source.
