

Ajax announce preseason plans

AJAX Cape Town have laid out their preseason plans, which include a tour of Gauteng later this month.

The Urban Warriors are in full swing with their preparations ahead of the new 2017-18 Premier Soccer League season, which will feature a slow start for them after they failed to qualify for the MTN8.

They will play their first game on Sunday against champions Bidvest Wits at their Ikamva home, two days after The Clever Boys clash with Cape Town City in Stellenbosch.

Ajax will then head north for a clash with SuperSport United at Atteridgeville on July 24, before meeting Maritzburg United two days later, though the venue for that game is still to be decided.

They will spend the week in Gauteng and on July 28 take on National First Division side University of Pretoria at the Tuks Stadium.

The matches will be a good test for the technical team, which now includes assistant Boebie Solomons alongside head coach Stanley Menzo. – TimesLIVE
