

Crunch time for bottom teams

By MTHOKOZISI MKHONZA

WITHOUT a doubt, two teams that finish at the bottom of the National First Division (NFD), will be relegated to the ABC Motsepe League.

Today is the final day of the NFD season.

Highlands Park will receive their title and crowned the champions of the league after winning automatic promotion.

As Highlands will be celebrating in Cape Town's Athlone Stadium after their encounter against Stellenbosch FC, there are fans who will be in tears as their favourite club will be relegated to the Motsepe League.

Mthatha Bucks have been axed already.

Four teams: Ubuntu Cape Town, Super Eagles, Richards Bay and Uthongathi FC, will be in a dog fight for maximum points as one of them will follow Mthatha Bucks.

History also reveals that teams who struggle to reach at least 33 points in the NFD are likely to be among relegation candidates.

Going to the final hurdle, Ubuntu have (29 points), Super Eagles (31), Richards Bay (31) and Uthongathi (31). No one is safe.

Ubuntu defender, Jesse Donn, said they would do their best and see what happens. "We are in a tricky situation now and there's nothing we can do about it. We need to win our last game.

"At this stage we can't expect any favours because all the teams are fighting their battles, they have goals that they want to achieve. And every team in the bottom half is not safe at all," he said.

Ubuntu can reach 32 points if they win and any team between the three above them drop points, they will survive.
