

TEN PROMISING YOUNG GOLFERS BENEFIT FROM SA OPEN LEGACY PROJECT!

By Lolliepop Mofoka @Glendower Golf Club

The Ekurhuleni SA Open legacy project is giving ten young golfers an opportunity for mentorship to perfect their swings on the golf course for the next three years.

The young golfers will now be part of the Glendower Golf Club Development Programme set to begin in January 2018

The promising stars will be accorded full junior membership of the club and will participate in tournaments on behalf of the club under the mentorship of Gavan Levenson and Loyiso Barnes from Ekurhuleni Golf Union.

"We are hoping that some of these kids will eventually be able to enroll at the University of Pretoria's High Performance Centre and develop successful golfing careers," said the Ekurhuleni's Director of Sports and Recreation, Atwell Sijadu.

Furthermore, the SA Open Legacy Project will include support in terms of counselling, mentorship, provision of transport and refreshments for the kids when they need to travel to competitions and tours.

The ten young golfers chosen from the final trials to form part of the SA Open Legacy Project at Glendower Golf Club on Sunday, November 26