

Humanities Faculty welcomes its first-years

The Faculty of Humanities welcomed its first-year students on Tuesday, 14 February 2023. Students were divided into groups according to their specific degree programmes. Each group started the day with a Welcoming Session, where they were welcomed into their respective degree programmes. Students were also given the opportunity to ask staff in the various departments questions at the Module Fair, which was held in the foyer of the Humanities Building.

This was followed by a variety of insightful information sessions that ranged from tours of the Merensky Library, where students learnt how to make the most of UP's electronic resources, to information sessions on curriculum advising, student perspectives and timetable explanations. There were also sessions that introduced essential skills, where students were taught how to construct and write an academic essay.

The student turnout at Orientation Week was a resounding success, especially at the Module Fair. It was also refreshing to be able to welcome the 2023 first-year students in person—this is the first in-person orientation since 2020.

The Faculty of Humanities wishes its students all the best for their first year!

Why a programme in Humanities?

Read more at: www.up.ac.za/faculty-of-humanities/article/2911701/why-a-programme-in-the-humanities

Contact information

Tel: +27 (0)12 420 4940

Email: u18064699@tuks.co.za or robynschnell@gmail.com

Website: <https://www.up.ac.za/faculty-of-humanities>

A member of House Humanities answers a student's question at the Module Fair

Students outside the Humanities Building

