Using a Language Development Model to Guide AAC Decisions

Seminar presented by Prof Cathy Binger

Wednesday, 27 September 2017

Making decisions when providing augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) interventions can be an overwhelming proposition - so many options are now available, and even clinicians with highly specialized AAC knowledge may not agree on the solutions. One way to assist with making these complex decisions is to rely on knowledge of normal language development. In this session, we will explore language domains that should be considered, and how to tell if and when we can use AAC to help fill in those gaps

Programme

08:30 – 09:00 Registration

09:00 – 10:30 Introduction
AAC and typical language development

10:30 - 11:00 Tea

11:00 – 12:30 Language domains and AAC
Conclusion
