

You don't need to let your circumstances limit you - you can change your life through higher education and the Moshal Program...

Since 2010, the Program has been supporting talented, resilient and determined young people to change their lives through higher education, creating inter-generational economic mobility in South Africa.

“If you believe in yourself, I will believe in you. If you are determined to realise your potential and to change your life and the lives of those around you, I will be there for you and together we can pay it forward and make a difference”.
