Bachelor of Science Medical Sciences

The Department of Anatomy is part of the School of Medicine in the Faculty of Health Sciences and offers a Bachelor of Science Medical Sciences degree in the Faculty of Natural and Agricultural Sciences. Students are trained in the basic medical sciences, which include clinical anatomy, physical and forensic anthropology, histology, cell biology and embryology. These subjects can be combined with elective modules from physiology, pharmacology and genetics. Ideally, students who register for this degree should have a keen interest in research related to anatomy and the basic medical sciences.

What makes this programme unique?

Students are trained in the basic medical sciences, including clinical anatomy, physical anthropology and cell biology. During the course of their studies they work with human material, including human skeletal material, and do cadaver dissection.

Career opportunities

Career opportunities exist in the field of research in any of the subdisciplines of anatomy, in academia, in forensic science and in the health science industry.

Other careers that may be considered are in sports science, virology, chemical pathology, immunology, health administration or ergonomics. Technical careers, for example in the Departments of Anatomy or Physiology at universities, are another possibility.

Which companies employ our graduates?

Graduates are sought after by institutes in the academic, government and private sectors, where they are employed as lecturers, researchers, medical and forensic scientists, and sales representatives in the medical and pharmacological industries. Several of our postgraduate students are currently studying at research facilities in North America and Europe.
