"Editing is not an expense - it's an investment!"

Students: A thesis is the culmination of months of hard work. Before even reading a word, the examiner's first impression of your thesis is often a lasting one. Present your document in a professional manner by ensuring that it is edited by a copy-editor with, over and above copy-editing skills, also has excellent MS Word® formatting and layout skills. I have assisted many students and various companies in delivering quality documentation. My service includes on-screen language editing, formatting of the general style of the document, and checking for consistency.

Lecturers: Struggling to get your article published in a professional journal? After you have completed the content of an article, I can assist with the layout and formatting required for professional publication in technology or specialist magazines. I have extensive experience in MS Word® and will format your article according to the style required by the publication.

I hold a bachelor degree from Harvard University where I majored in Economics and Linguistics). I also have an MBA from Kuehne Logistics University in Hamburg, Germany where I wrote my thesis on Ship Finance. I have extensive financial industry experience, having worked for the Financial Sector Policy Unit at the National Treasury of South Africa for almost four years, as well as an investment bank (a South African subsidiary of Barclays Capital).

I have 3 years of top-tier management consulting experience, including Deloitte Consulting, during which time I worked on a number of projects in the financial and logistics industries. I am currently a freelance academic editor. I have extensive experience editing Master's and PhD dissertations. I specialize in MBA's and other business-related degrees, where I help students get the marks they deserve but often don't get. References available upon request. In particular I look at the following aspects of an academic paper (list not exhaustive):

- Grammar and Spelling, including comma splices, fragments, subject-verb agreement
- Style, including run-on sentences, keeping paragraphs short, reducing each sentence to its essential parts, avoiding the overuse of subordinate clauses, getting rid of as many adverbs and adjectives as possible
- References, including ensuring that all references in paper are in reference list, alphabetising the reference list, and ensuring all references in reference list are in paper
- Formatting (as per relevant style guide), including font type, spacing, font size, table of contents, table of figures, tables
