Brown Bag Lunch: Sharing teaching practice

The Deputy Dean: Education and the Department for Education Innovation invite you to a presentation:

Title: ClickUP and TurnitIn: Approaches to become more effective with online grading.

Dr Nico Claassen and Zuki Tshabalala will share their experiences with clickUP and Tii to provide feedback to students but also to make the administration and management of assignments more efficient.

In their research on electronic assessment, Heinrich, Milne and Granshaw (2012) concluded that “electronic assignment submission and return of marking has advantages in terms of speed, independence of physical location and document management. Marking can be completed faster as less time has to be spent on administrative tasks. The consistency and quality of feedback can be better, due to increased opportunities for marker guidance, comparisons and reviews of feedback. The feedback provided to students is likely to be more complete, better structured and more legible.”

Presenters: Dr Nico Claassen, Ms Zuki Tshabalala and Dr Hannelie Untiedt

When: Tuesday 14 April 2015

Where: HW Snyman North 3:55

Time: 13:00 – 13:50
