Speaker: Professor Iggihr from INRIA and Lorraine University, France.

Title: Observer theory: An introduction and applications to epidemiology

Short Abstract: We give an overview of the notion of observability and observers synthesis for finite-dimensional control systems. We show how observers can be used to dynamically estimate some state variables that can not be “physically” measured. Examples of application to some epidemic models will be given.