Hi guys, my name is Ropah, I'm doing my final year in Bcom Informatics.

I just wanted to give you guys tips on how I'm dealing with my academics during this pandemic that we faced with as a nation. Uhhm... First of all, I have a study timetable or a timetable, just for the day. I know what time I am going to wake up and I know what time I have to be finished with my chores, 'cause you know, mothers will be like on yah.... do this, do this, do that. So, I have set like one and half hour for that. And then after that, I know I go through my case studies and when I feel like I need to sleep, I go walk around the house, since we are now on a lockdown. And then after that, I either go back to my table and start making notes or something like that. So, just have a timetable and know what you are doing.

And yeah...Good luck you guys!
