Approaches is a leading open access journal in the field of music therapy. It is a peer reviewed, bilingual (English-Greek) publication.

Fostering interdisciplinary dialogue, Approaches invites diverse perspectives on music therapy practice, profession and discipline. Submissions of manuscripts originating from related fields of practice within the wider music and health arena are welcome, including psychology of music, music education, community music and medical ethnomusicology.

A range of submission genres are invited, including research and theoretical articles, book reviews, conference and project reports, interviews, and tributes. Submissions are accepted throughout the year, and once a manuscript is ready for publication it becomes immediately available on the journal's First View.
