Dear Professor,

I have the pleasure to send you enclosed the call for our Global South Scholar-In-Residence Programme. This programme has been designed for university teachers from Africa, Asia, Latin America. Selected participants – three each semester for a three-year period – are invited to come to the Institute to further their research projects, update their teaching curricula, and interact with colleagues and students working in their field of specialisation.

I would appreciate if you could forward this information to your colleagues – preference is given to young and female academics.

More information on this programme and our institute is available on our website: <http://graduateinstitute.ch>.

Yours sincerely,

Philippe Burrin
