Special Father's Day edition

Dear Booklover,

There are often situations and times, when children forget to hug their dad, kiss and tell him that they love him like they do to their mothers. Most of us would agree that we assume our father to be the provider for the family. From the time we worship our beloved dad for all that he knew and all that he could, we move on to become a rebellious teenager, when we make it a point to argue about everything and anything that he advises to us.

This Father's Day, show your Dad how much you love and respect him and how much you care for him. Get the perfect gift in store.

Only time will tell - Jeffrey Archer

The epic tale of Harry Clifton's life begins in 1920, with the chilling words, 'I was told that my father was killed in the war'. But it will be another twenty years before Harry discovers how his father really died, which will only lead him to question: who was his father? Is he the son of Arthur Clifton, a stevedore who worked in Bristol docks, or the first born son of a scion of West Country society, whose family owns a shipping line? "Only Time Will Tell" covers the years from 1920 to 1940, and includes a cast of memorable characters. Volume one takes us from the ravages of the Great War to the outbreak of the Second World War, when Harry must decide whether to take up a place at Oxford, or join the navy and go to war with Hitler's Germany.

WE NEED TO TALK
OOR BOKDROLLETJIES EN ROSYNTJIES:
PROF JONATHAN JANSEN

Professor Jonathan Jansen is fast becoming a household name in SA, for his critical and, at times, inconvenient voice. He has published a collection of articles which highlight the issues we need to talk about. With humour, humility, occasional anger and a good dose of common sense Jansen discusses education, race and identity, the state of our nation, leadership and even sport. He has a vision of the South Africa we can build, if only we pull together and work together to heal the wounds of the past. Prof Jansen will be here to share that vision with us.

About the speaker:

Prof Jansen is the rector of the University of the Free State, where he earned a formidable reputation for transformation and for a deep commitment to reconciliation in communities living with the heritage of apartheid. Prof Jansen is probably best known for dropping the charges against and the re-admittance of four University of Free State students charged with racism against black staff members. Jansen is a former Dean at the University of Pretoria and President of the South African Institute of Race Relations.

We need to talk

This collection of his English columns published in The Times newspaper reflects his decidedly non-PC views on education, race and identity, the state of our nation, leadership and even sport. When asked what the secret of his controversial columns is, he answers "A good column irritates half of your readers each time, the secret is that it should be a different half with each column."

Jansen takes his inspiration from a diverse group of people - statesmen, teachers, students, children and everyday South Africans he meets - and introduces us to them through his columns. Bound to make you stop and think, and then talk about his ideas around the dinner table, in a classroom or on the bus.

Oor bokdrolletjies en rosyntjies

Toe Jonathan Jansen 'n kind was, het sy ma eendag vir hom gese: "My kind, bokdrolletjies is nou eenmaal nie rosyntjies nie" - bedoelende dat mens nooit moet maak of nonsens beteken is het nie. En inderdaad is hy nou landwyd bekend as iemand wat 'n ding se soos dit is. Hy is 'n strydvoerder vir gesonde verstand en gee nie om as hy in die proses op 'n paar tone trap nie. As mens hom vra hoekom sy kontroversiële rubrieke so gewild is, se hy " 'n Goeie artikel irriteer elke keer die helfte van jou lesers; die geheim is om elke keer 'n ander helfte te irriteer." Hierdie versameling van sy Afrikaanse rubrieke in Die Burger, Beeld en ander koerante weerspieël sy eiesoortige opinies oor die onderwys, ras en identiteit, sake van die dag, leierskap en selfs sport. Hy gee ons voortdurend pitkos vir die brein, wat maklik tot warm argumente lei

Monty - Mark Keohane

Percy Montgomery made history in August 2008 when he became the first Springbok to play 100 Test matches. When the fullback announced his retirement from international rugby two games later, he was the holder of 94 Springbok records. In this biography, Monty reveals for the first time: How he felt when he was booed by Springbok fans at Loftus, and when he saw two Springbok fans urinating against his image on the Bok team bus. Why he wasn't prepared to play in a trial match for Bok coach Rudolf Straeuli in 2002. The story behind his six-month suspension in Wales, 2003. Why he came back to South Africa in 2004, and his role in winning the Tri-Nations. How Victor Matfield wanted Jake White to be fired in 2006. Why he was furious with Dick Muir and Bryan Habana after the Sharks lost the 2007 Super 14 final. Why he has no respect for Bok legend Naas Botha. How he kicked with torn knee ligaments in the 2007 World Cup final, risking permanent damage. How he nearly retired from Test rugby in 2007 after reading Jake White's book. Why he left Perpignan in 2008.

Springbok Kitchen - Duane Heath

Springbok Kitchen is a visual celebration of South Africans' love of food and all things rugby, presented here in the favourite recipes of 40 past and present Springbok rugby legends. Swapping their jerseys for aprons, some of the most famous men to have worn the green and gold, lift the lid on their love of food. Away from the field, and the glare of the television cameras, Springbok Kitchen takes you into the players' homes and hearts to paint an intimate portrait of the role that food plays in their private lives. But Springbok Kitchen isn't only about the recipes of our rugby heroes - it's a uniquely South African story of how food brings old rugby friends and complete strangers together around braais, skottels and kitchen tables all across this beautiful land.
