Ibero-American Music Festival

Cuinique was founded in 2007, due to its members' common interest in traditional Mexican music, and in particular that of the western part of the country (Oaxaca, Guerrero, Michoacán, Jalisco).

Since then, the group has performed its music in diverse settings and for audiences around the Mexican Republic, such as the Milos Festival organized by the National School of Teachers, in Mexico City (2007), and at the State Theater of Puebla de los Ángeles, Puebla (2008).

As part of its commitment to traditional music, Cuinique has participated in events involving the Mexican musical heritage in diverse towns and villages of the Mixteca Region in Oaxaca (2007 & 2008).

Abroad, Cuinique performed in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (2008)
