- BSc (Food Management) Culinary Science

Culinary Science is a broad-based discipline that combines food chemistry, microbiology, culinary art and food product development, and lends itself to innovation and entrepreneurship. The practical training includes the characterisation of various food ingredients and their utilisation in recipe development. The research component focuses on understanding the functional properties of various food types and their application in the food service industry.

This degree is for those who are not only interested in creating food that tastes and looks great, but also want to understand why food tastes and looks the way it does.

Any candidate wishing to pursue a career in the culinary science stream requires not only technical ability, but also has to be an analytical problem solver who pays attention to detail.

This degree offers a seamless integration of culinary art and science to equip future graduates with a degree embedded in science and technology and tailored to changing culinary trends.

Career opportunities include culinary scientists, culinologists, sensory analysts, food researchers, food product developers, food service managers, safety and quality assurers, food production managers, entrepreneurs and food legislation experts.

For more information, please consult the Faculty webpage.
