Bachelor of Occupational Therapy (BOT)

As a healthcare profession, occupational therapy promotes health and well-being. It is the art and science of facilitating participation through occupations

The Department of Occupational Therapy at the University of Pretoria embraces transformation and diversity and aims to be an outstanding internationally respected department, committed to excellence in research, social responsiveness and innovative teaching and learning. As a healthcare profession, occupational therapy promotes health and well-being. It is the art and science of facilitating participation through occupations.

Occupational therapists enable people of all ages with physical and mental impairment to lead meaningful and independent lives. Individuals with physical and mental health conditions and/or disabilities are treated to function independently/optimally in their occupations and in specific contexts. People with loss of function due to disability and societal barriers are assisted by modifying their occupations or the environment to maintain their independence.

The ideal candidate must have the following characteristics:

- Good communication skills (written and verbal)
- Exceptional interpersonal skills
- Caring and empathetic
- Able to encourage others to develop their potential
- Creative and show initiative
- Problem solver
- Intellectual and practical aptitudes
- Strong self-esteem
- Well-balanced lifestyle
- High emotional intelligence
- Ability to work in a team

Occupational therapy is an exciting career that offers numerous opportunities. It requires an adaptable, intelligent and practical person with good problem-solving skills. A successful occupational therapist has good interpersonal skills and can approach diverse situations in a resourceful and creative manner.
