This module aims to equip students to successfully present Religion Studies in the Senior and/or Further Education and Training Phase. The theoretical underpinning of the content of the syllabus as well as the requirements expected to guide learners studying Religion Studies as subject are studied. Students are expected to prepare phase specific teaching activities according to the requirements of the school syllabus for the phase in which they are enrolled to prepare them for their role as teachers of Religion Studies. Students present lessons through micro-teaching and apply appropriate assessment and questioning; present an assignment and apply previously acquired communication skills in the teaching of Religion Studies.
