Department Information Science

Minimum duration of study 3 years

Total credits 401

NQF level 07

Programme information

Modern information technology offers the possibility of information products being designed and created from various types of media over and above the traditional text medium. Information technology therefore results in the convergence of various previously separate traditional media. The Multimedia qualification in the Department of Information Science addresses this development. Multimedia documents include text, graphics, sound, video and animation. Any type of institution in all economic spheres, including government, may profit from a multimedia approach to information design, organisation and retrieval.

The purpose of this qualification is to enable students to understand the necessary concepts to build and maintain multimedia products. This programme is therefore a combination of theory and practice and addresses the latest technological trends including current web development frameworks, game design, and interaction design.
